Parade Wins Most Praise at 4th Bazaar

Bethel's fourth annual Bazaar was held last Saturday on the Bethel Common and was a successful affair even though the attendance was somewhat smaller than had been hoped for. Much credit for the event goes to Herbert Kittredge, Frank Nary, Roderick (Mush) McMillin, Jim Lassiter, Adeline Dexter and her helpers from the Legion Auxiliary, Marjorie Freeman and her assistants from the PTA for their very successful auction with Frank Nary as auctioneer. $216.35 was realized from the auction which lasted most all day.

At the baseball game the married men outlasted the single men to the score of 10-1. This event took place at the Gould Academy ball field in the afternoon and was in charge of Spec and Scott Gueney.

Lawrence Sanders, State Trooper of Bethel, Albert Grover and Roderick McMillin were present in their official capacities as officers to direct traffic and help in any way needed. It has been remarked that the crowd for the day and evening were exceptionally quiet and orderly.

The parade started from the Common at 5 p. m. led by the Norway-Park Band up around the Common, down Main Street. At the monument the children and band turned back up Main Street, while the many floats went on to come up Railroad and Church Streets in order to give more a chance to see them. There were more floats than in the past, some very prettily decorated. Among them were represented Bennett's Garage, Redd Kilowatt (CMP Co.), Mush's Bazaar, Bethel Auto Sales, Jason Smith's grain store, the 4 C's (the Carter, Cotton, Cummings, Canner children) the Crescent Park School Band, Bryant's Market, Wee Folk Shop.

The children of the town were well represented in the parade in all sorts of regalia. It is remarkable how each year the folks think up such original outfits for their children and some of them put in hours making the outfit, or decorating the cart or whatever it may be. We only wish we had the names of all those entering the parade to give them here in the paper. Each entrant was given an entry lollipop, and prizes were awarded as follow to the various groups:

Boys and Cars: 1—Wee Folk Shop; 2—Bryant's Market; 3—Crescent Park School Band; 4—Honorable Mention, 11 to Mush's Bazaar and the 4 C's.

Boys: 1—Barbara Angevine; 2—Peter York; 3—Barry Roberts.

Girls: 1—Lorraine Eames; 2—Charlie Mills; 3—Linda Palmer; 4—Lorraine Brown.

Costumed: 1—Claire Berry; 2—Baron York; 3—Brown's Extra.

The $750 prize won by the Bryant's Market float was given by Mrs. Bryant to the Crescent Park School Band group for their untiring fund.

The judges for the parade were Mrs. Walter Morse of Portland; Mrs. and Mrs. Luther Cudworth of Bangor; Mrs. John and Lady

ANNUAL REUNION OF WEST BETHEL SCHOOL HELD

The annual get-together of former teachers and pupils of West Bethel School was held at the Grange Hall, Sunday, Aug. 3.

About 26 attended church where a very hearty welcome was extended to all by Rev. Peter Cowing. Later the group went to the Hall where they were joined by other former pupils and guests. A picnic lunch was followed by a social afternoon.

Mrs. Florence Styles West, who first planned the annual reunions, was greeted by four former teachers.

Assisting in lining up the children and awarding the prizes were Mrs. Harriett Noyes, Mrs. Marjorie Freeman, Mrs. Mary Keasdale, Mrs. Helen Morton, Mrs. Maxine Brown, Mrs. Mary Patne, Mrs. Annie Hastings, Mrs. Polly Chaplin.

Tommy Hutchins was winner of the bicycle from the Guild Booth. The bicycle was supplied through the courtesy of J. B. Chapman.

The Chamber of Commerce had charge of a Puppet Show at Odeon Hall in the evening when Mr. and Mrs. Hans Wacker of Portland presented a fine show.

Groups taking part in the mid-day were East Bethel Community Group, Lions Club, Bethel Players, W. S. C. S. Girl Scouts, American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary, Congregational and Methodist Guilds, Men's Brotherhood, Middle Intervale Extension Group, Saunders and Freeman boys, Rebekahs. The Boy Scouts were present to run errands and assist all that they could.

All groups were not able to be present at the meeting this Monday evening and thus the report for the day is not as yet complete but there will be printed a complete and itemized report of the day so that all may know how much was received and how it has been used.

The Bazaar group wishes to thank all who helped in any way in this year's affair and to remind everyone that we do need more help. Now ideas, now events to plan next year's so let's all keep it in mind and start now to plan a bigger and better one than ever in 1953.

ABNER B. KIMBALL

The three score years and ten allotted to our late friend and neighbor Abner B. Kimball were full of friendships and achievement and hard work. A kind and considerate man to others he never spared himself and within a few days of his death did his usual twelve hour stretch in the hay field.

He was a loyal citizen of Albany, spent his entire life there, except for a few winter vacations in Florida, and was closely associated with the people and traditions of his town and neighborhood. These neighbors, his loving children and his many Bethel friends will long miss him.

A heart-warming sight was to see and hear Abner greeting, and being welcomed back, on his Spring return from the South. All up and down our village streets his booming voice responded to the cordial greetings of young and old. He was always glad to be back home and people were glad to see him.

Abner was a farmer in the old fashioned sense of the word. A generation ago he raised on his farm on the shores of Songo Pond all native crops and geese, ducks, chickens, turkeys, sheep and cattle. To favored housewives he sold dairy products and garden produce. With the passing of this well known citizen one more link with the colorful era of the old Songo Pond colony is gone.

The profusion of flowers at his funeral on this Thursday at Hunt's Corner Church, Rev. Alvin Strong officiating, and the throng of friends and mourners were mute and humble evidences of the love and respect accorded a good man.

Abner B. Kimball died Monday at St. Louis Hospital, Berlin, N. H., where he had been a patient for two weeks.

He was born at Albany, Sept. 7, 1881, the son of Thomas and Martha Burris Kimball. He married Bertha Burris in 1903, who died in 1929. He was a prominent farmer and lumberman, and had spent the past several winters in De Land, Florida. He was a member of Round Mountain Grange.

He is survived by his wife, Daisy, two daughters, Mrs. Celia Gorman, Bethel, and Mrs. Jeanne Claremont, Albany, three sons, Floyd, Bethel, and Albert, and Leonard, of Bethel, a step-daughter, Miss Ivy Philbrick of Albany; a sister, Mrs. Mary Brown, Bethel, a brother, Leslie of Albany; 11 grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

The week of July 28 had a total attendance of 229. Regener's certificates were earned by James Corey and Howard Crockett. Intermediate certificates by Susan Saunders and Daniel Cronin.

Summer certificates by Jane Bennett, Joanne Bennett and Madeyn Crane; Advanced summer certificates by Lillian Currier and Mary Lee Selling. The non-the-less welcome rain cancelled a few hours and there were no classes Thursday out of respect for Abner Kimball.

A Past Grand of Mount Abram Lodge of Odd Fellows he had been a member of this Lodge for nearly 60 years.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mildred Farrar of Randolph, N. H., Mrs. Harold F. Bennett of Bethel, and Mrs. Glenwood Smith of Falmouth Foreside; a son, Charles, of North Waterford; a brother, Ernest, of Oquossoc; four grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Dry Weather Causes Great Crop Losses

Extremely dry weather in most parts of Maine this summer has caused severe damage to such crops as blueberries, peas, snap and dry beans, lettuce, second-crop hay, and even oats and potatoes. Rain is badly needed and it must come soon and in sufficient quantity if further losses are to be prevented. Irrigation systems have paid off handsomely this year. Only bright spot in the picture has been the excellent haying weather.

Communist Unions Should Go

During a discussion recently in a Mid-western city on Communist infiltration in various phases of our national life, a man rose during the question period, identified himself as a high school principal and asked why some of our big defense industries don't kick out the Communist-dominated unions. He mentioned several big companies which have continued to deal with alleged Communist-dominated unions although competing non-Communist unions existed.

The answer is that so long as a majority of employees of a plant or of a particular trade in that plant elect a Communist-dominated union as their bargaining agent and the National Labor Relations Board certifies that union to be the exclusive representative of the employees, the union cannot be legally kicked out by the company. General Electric Company, manufacturer of jet engines and atomic weapons, has been obliged to deal in some instances with the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, and its alleged Communist leaders because this union is the holder of control of the company's labor force and has been certified by the NLRB.

Congressional Action

A committee of Congress is studying legislative means ofousting the Communist labor unions. It recognizes that they cannot be kicked out of plants so long as a Federal government with the National Labor Relations Board gives them legal standing. The committee has asked for help from non-Communist labor leaders and several leading industrialists who have been involved with unions labeled as Communist dominated.

1. It should be the President's duty to direct the Department of Labor to conduct a study of the Communist labor unions and to report on the results of the study to the President.

Recommendations
General Eisenhower's special representative, Mr. Clegg, has made a study of the Communist labor unions and has reported on the results of the study to the President.

DALE CARNEGIE

AUTHOR OF "HOW TO STOP WORRYING AND START LIVING"

Active Life Banishes Worry

GUION L. PHILLIPS, Charlotte, N.C., once was so dissatisfied with his job that he hated to see the sun rise. He says he made life miserable for his wife when he came home at night. He was ready to quit his job, but not having another one to go to he hung on.

Then his manager told him to pack up and go to Atlanta to a sales training school. He had decided that this job offered no career for him and he felt he was wasting his time as well as the company's. But just to hold on to a job, he reported at the school.

Suddenly he realized that there were two alternatives for him: (1) He could just waste time and do nothing but be bored. (2) He could fill over minute with study and activity and get all he could out of this course; he had nothing to lose. The sales training would be good for any new undertaking.

So he grabbed on to that course with jaws firm and he got every speck of knowledge and experience from it he could. His enthusiasm overwhelmed him. He hadn't known he could forget worry so easily. Every day his assignments were in on time, his lessons prepared, and he participated in class discussion more than he ever had in any lecture course. To his surprise he gained weight, felt better and got a tremendous boost from the training school. He reported back to his company a new man; worry was gone; enthusiastic activity was the answer. Since then he has kept so busy practicing the things he learned that his mind has had no time for worry.

Time passed. At times discouragement and doubt try to creep into his mind when things don't do right, but he has found the answer. Get busy! An active life is too full to have any room for idle worry!

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

The first thing General Eisenhower did after winning his victory on TV was to call on Senator Taft. The significance of this gesture and the gracious gesture of Taft for it there is to be a Republican victory next November, it is clear that there must be far more unity within the party than exists at the moment.

The wounds that were inflicted before and during the convention are deep and painful. It is General Eisenhower's difficult task to heal them.

Senator Taft, with the greatest response that was expected of him, by saying he would do everything in his power to help the GOP candidate win and to help him afterwards as President. No one doubts that Taft will do exactly this.

But many of the Taft men, and to a greater extent the hard-core McCarthy men, have demonstrated a very different attitude.

Their anger, it is true, is not directed so much at Eisenhower as it is at those who managed his campaign and fought to a victorious conclusion without giving or making quarter—notably, Governor Dewey. Many think Eisenhower could not have beaten Taft without the enormously skillful work of Dewey and the Dewey lieutenants from New York. Only about two weeks before the convening of the convention it was evident that the General's political star was sinking, and it was then that what amounted to an SOS was sent to the Governor. What he accomplished deserves a permanent place in the history of the party.

He demonstrated again what even his bitterest enemies have long admitted — that when the chips are finally down in a tough political game, no one plays his cards better.

It may be that one of the major Republican assets is, in a sense, a negative one. In informed party circles, there is none of the blind confidence that characterized the 1948 campaign and led to the defeat.

There is every indication, however, that even if General Eisenhower is successful at peace, this fall he will have a Democratic Senate, and possibly a Democratic House. The Republicans have 10 senators up for reelection — the Democrats 14. But of the 14 Democrats, nine are from the south or a pretty solid north state. While of the 19 Republicans, eight are from very doubtful states.

Eisenhower needs the so-called "old guard" to win. He made a public effort at peace by walking across the street in Chicago to the raft headquarters and offering the bare branch to Senator Taft. On the surface Senator Taft accepted it and pledged his support. No one doubts the sincerity. But there are doubts whether Eisenhower can line up the Taft supporters to present a reasonably united party front in November.

While the basic planks of the GOP platform adopted at Chicago are embedded in a mass of executive and legislative proposals, in which it is difficult to determine the meaning, on the domestic front Eisenhower probably can find common ground. But on most of these issues he must stand up and be counted. A majority of the nation's business men believe that the general is the difference between the trend towards "socialism" and free enterprise.

General Eisenhower made one move to placate the vital mid-west when he chose, or at least his supporters chose, Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as GOP national chairman. And this election might well turn on the midwest vote, since this is the area in which President Truman supplied the falls in 1947 by capturing such states as Illinois, Iowa, Ohio and Missouri.

REPAIRS FOR RAPIDS AHEAD

ACROSS the DESK

ideas from other editors

FROM the Lamar County Echo, Paris, Texas:

"Why do newspapers throughout the country devote so much space to editorial comment? Are the editors trying to 'run' the nation or force the people to adopt their views? Not at all. They are only endeavoring to get the people to stop and think for themselves. If editors can do this, they have fulfilled their obligations to the public. We do not expect all our readers to agree with us on any issue discussed in these columns. When they agree or disagree we have at least caused them to do a little thinking of their own—and that's our mission so far as editors are concerned."

Spaniel dog with long black ears. Other men prefer the Convict trim, that is where the head is almost shaved. Next comes the Butch cut, not quite so short, but still on some fad. Instead of looking like Joe College it looks like Egg Head of the Circus.

"Next comes what I call the Sheep Dog. He doesn't have his hair cut or combed and peers out like a sheep dog. Then there is the bald spot, and no matter how the bald spot and brusher it he still can't cover the bald spot. Somehow the effect resembles a hole." Now we come to the Rag Man.

Fair-dos and Dont's

from The Wright County Monitor, Clarion, Iowa:
"There have been a lot of comments about the horse tail hair-do, most of them vigorously adverse insofar as the men are concerned. But one of the cleverest rebuttals on that comes from 'Snooping Sal' column in the Clear Lake Mirror. Just get a load of what Sal says about some of the men's hair-dos:

"Men have made many comments on the style of women's hair-dos, especially with the advent of the 'poodle curl' and the 'horse tail.' I even heard one fellow remark that the poodle cut should be on a dog, and the horse tail should stay on the horse. Now this fellow was sporting what I call the Cocker Spaniel cut. He had long black hair that reminded me of a Cocker Spaniel, he is bald on top, and has."

Grass Roots Opinion

Knoxville Express, Knoxville, Tenn.:
"Our government experts say that many foreign countries will be made into self-supporting nations. Perhaps, like charity, these things should start at home. Here in this country nothing appears able to support itself without government help . . . here we are far away foreign places being told how to become self-sufficient."

From Italy News-Herald, Italy, Texas:

"Had Congress refused to go along with presidential requests for more power . . . had Congress had a tight rein on governmental expenditures; had Congress been careful about approving presidential appointees, this nation would never have slipped as far along the road to socialism as it has."

Hot and Heated As Ike and

By the time the Chicago on July 26 up to be one of the nation's history.

To compete with Richard Nixon for Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Sen. John Sparkman and they did it the narrow margin, following convention.

When, on that fateful night, the forces behind Stevenson pushed him over the top to receive the presidential nomination on the third ballot it was to one of the most violent political conventions anywhere.

Ever since the opening quadrennial meeting, July 21, the 1,230 delegates inhabiting the swarms of Chicago's International Theatre had fought like cats over civil rights, party loyalty, and a few profound issues—such as not to adjourn.

But in the end, the man that had threatened to party—a liberal, a fighter over the now familiar "assurance" of loyalty.

ADLAI STEVENSON

had been pretty well known as the choice of Stevenson's presidential candidacy. He had been a North-South unity, a dissonant voice still heard.

Stevenson himself, in a off-the-cuff manner, had said a little to the impending by his attitude of total toward the whole idea of president.

His behavior during the preceding convention had seemed almost up until the nomination, probably well-ordered as a kind of political. He made no deals; he never offered of support. He again and again that all was to be governor of Illinois.

He did everything, in fact, to make an incontrovertible statement that he would not accept nomination.

Yet, in the end, bereft of decision after the convention, he made the decision for Stevenson revealed himself as a shrewd, energetic, and wide-eyed, ready to go to the last interests of the nation, the campaign between no winner.

Acceptance Speech
"I accept your nomination for president," he said in a speech to the clamorous delegates who had elected him. "And now that you have decided I will fight to win with all my heart and soul. With your help, I have no doubt that we will win."

Stevenson, now 52 years old, had appointed governor since the early days of New Deal. At one time he had been assistant to Secretary James F. Byrnes. It was incidentally, who started his political career in 1934, to draft him to run for in 1940.

Stevenson is on record as to all or most of it that will arise in the election. He favors limited government programs to assist the poor. He has not been able to reach a decent standard of living.

Wants FEPC Law
He says he will seek a permanent practices law "to prevent enforcement." The matter of fact, was one of the first he made before he even began to talk about it. He Democratic nomination and that the party wrote a platform a strong civil rights plank. The plank, as it turned out, fell short of what he had said he had made his point.

He is against socialism and against the "McCarthyism" and against investigations, which he trappings of a police state. On the Taft-Hartley law, taken a middle-of-the-road saying that some of its 130 sections are good, others are bad.

Hot and Heavy Campaign Predicted As Ike and Adlai Vie for Presidency

By the time the Democratic convention screeched to a halt in Chicago on July 26 America had the line-ups for what is shaping up to be one of the most crucial presidential elections in the nation's history.

To compete with Republicans Dwight D. Eisenhower and Richard Nixon for the presidential prize the Democrats picked Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama—and they did it the hard way, in a wide-open, bellowing, week-long convention.

When, on that fateful Friday evening, the forces behind Adlai Stevenson pushed him over the top to receive the presidential nomination on the third ballot it was the climax to one of the most violent and raucous political conventions ever held anywhere.

Ever since the opening of the big quadrennial meeting on Monday, July 21, the 1,230 Democratic delegates inhabiting the swarming floor of Chicago's International Amphitheatre had fought like the Kilkeny cats over civil rights, candidates, party loyalty, and a few other less profound issues—such as whether or not to adjourn.

But in the end, the main breach that had threatened to divide the party—a liberal vs. conservative fight over the now famous Moody loyalty "assurance" resolution—had been pretty well bridged. Stevenson's choice of Sparkman as the vice-presidential candidate was intended to cap the effort towards North-South unity, although some discordant voices still were being heard.

Stevenson himself, in a somewhat off-the-cuff manner, had contributed a little to the impending disunity by his attitude of total reluctance toward the whole idea of running for president.

His behavior during the weeks preceding the convention, and indeed almost up until the day of his nomination, probably will be recorded as a kind of political classic. He made no deals; he rejected all overtures of support. He repeated again and again that all he wanted was to be governor of Illinois.

He did everything, in fact, except make an incontrovertible statement that he would not accept the nomination.

Yet, in the end, bereft of his inclination after the convention had made the decision for him, Adlai Stevenson revealed himself as a shrewd, energetic, and willing candidate, ready to go to bat in the best interests of the nation during the campaign between now and November.

Acceptance Speech
"I accept your nomination—and your program," he said in his speech to the clamorous and satisfied delegates who had chosen him. "And now that you have made your decision I will fight to win that office with all my heart and soul. With your help, I have no doubt that we will win."

Stevenson, now 52 years old, has held appointive government positions since the early days of the New Deal. At one time he was special assistant to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes. It was Byrnes, incidentally, who started him on his active political career by urging Jacob Arvey, Illinois Democratic boss, to draft him to run for governor in 1913.

Stevenson is on record with regard to all or most of the issues that will arise in the election campaign. He favors limited social welfare programs to assist those who through "unavoidable circumstances" have not been able to maintain a decent standard of living.

Wants FEPC Law
He says he will seek a fair employment practices law "with powers of enforcement." That, as a matter of fact, was one of the provisions he made before he would even begin to talk about accepting the Democratic nomination. He insisted that the party write into its 1952 platform a strong and bold civil rights plank. The civil rights plank, as it turned out, fell a little short of what he had asked, but he had made his point.

He is against socialized medicine, against doles and subsidies, against "McCarthyism" and against loyalty investigations, which he calls the trappings of a police state.

On the Taft-Hartley law he has taken a middle-of-the-road stand, saying that some of its more than 120 sections are good, others bad.

In this respect he is in a certain amount of accord with the Republican nominee, Eisenhower.

Sen. John Sparkman, the Democrats' vice-presidential choice, has the blessing of the main body of party leaders, although there are some areas of coolness toward him around the fringes.

Gov. John S. Battle of Virginia claims he doesn't think Sparkman "is well enough known to be of any help" to the Democratic party in his state. Sparkman, of course, was staunch and solid backer of Georgia's Sen. Richard Russell during the long convention fight.

There is a possibility, too, that Sparkman's negative record on civil rights and a fair employment practices law might tend to harm or cancel out Stevenson's known attitude on that issue. Because of the serious civil rights flare-up that disrupted the 1948 Democratic convention Sparkman at that time joined in a demand to name Eisenhower as the Democratic candidate.

Disregarded Implications
It is a fair assumption, however, that the Democrats this year had their eyes open to this fact and knew what they were doing, choosing to ignore the possible implications in favor of nominating a vice-presidential candidate who would achieve within the party the North-South unity they need and want so badly.

One thing seems certain at this juncture: the presidential campaign will be a hard-fought battle and the election will be extremely close.

The Democrats, however, have an edge over the Republicans in that the integral structure of their party organization has not been so severely damaged. The Republican Old Guard, represented by the defeated Taft forces, remains bitter over Eisenhower's nomination and has not yet been seen jumping over any fences to give its full support to the GOP nominees.

Although the Democratic convention was a furious political melee, the party succeeded in maintaining a working cohesion, which was at least partly the result of Sen. Estes Kefauver's graceful acceptance of his defeat.

Kefauver, who started out the convention with the most popular support and the greatest number of delegates known to be pledged to any of the candidates, played the role of the stag at bay during the whole proceedings. He was besieged at every turn by a growing force of Stevenson, and in the final analysis could not cope with the tremendous influence wielded by the Illinois and New York delegations.

Two Costly Errors
In addition, the Tennessee senator made two tactical errors during the convention which didn't help his cause a bit: (1) He appeared in the convention hall Wednesday afternoon, in direct violation of a longstanding tradition which says that no new candidate should appear after the delegates get to the nomination stage. Although he received a noisy ovation, he created much resentment among the delegates at the same time. (2) In the final, and climactic, floor fight over the seating of the Virginia delegation, the Tennessee delegation voted against it. That, in all likelihood, cost Kefauver whatever chance he might have had of getting the support of the southern states.

But when Kefauver appeared on the platform Friday night after Stevenson's nomination he was smiling and courageous as he formally withdrew his name from the running and promised to lend his complete support to the Stevenson cause.

It was another demonstration of the will-to-win sense of unity that came and went periodically during the convention and which, at the end, the Democrats say, finally arrived to stay. For a while, anyway.

Now come, I will send thee into Egypt. (Acts 7:34) Read Acts 7:34-36.

STEPHEN was pointing out new values in old facts. That did not set well with his hearers. It seldom does! Among others, he mentioned Moses, to whom, in the wilderness mountain, the Lord's angel appeared in a flame of fire in a bush. Moses was astonished. By getting close he expected to see better. What happened was better than that. When he came close, God's voice came clear. He heard the best! His curiosity was rewarded with God's revelation of Himself and His will for Moses. "Now come, I will send thee into Egypt." We tend to run in grooves, or we settle down when we ought to be on the go! We do not attempt to find new meanings in our familiar ways. We do not set out to see God's sights! There are fields white unto harvest which we never see. It is true that real living takes time. It also takes trouble. We can obtain bondage through ease. Liberty requires strenuous vigilance and struggle. So does growth in Christlikeness. No cross, no crown.

Prayer
Dear God, awaken us from our ease. Arouse us to look for tasks needful to be done for Thee. Help us today to hear Thy voice as Thou speakest to us in the familiar things and events. We know Thou wilt be with us as we go forth into some Egypt to which Thou art this day calling us. Teach us obedience to Thy will. For the Master's sake, Amen.

THE FIRST VERSE of our lesson text not only lays down a command but also indicates a condition that will be found in a good home.

Uncovering the wicked evasions of the scribes and Pharisees, Jesus condemned them for assuming obligations that they claimed would prevent their caring for their parents. And certainly a man should now be condemned if he pleads his commitments for relatives or friends as an excuse for not doing that which is needed by his parents.

The last part of the lesson text leads us to see the blessed relation between Jesus and his mother. In the last hour of the cross, when Jesus was dying, the thoughts of Jesus were of his mother and a significant command by which he made her mother stand in the place of his mother.

Thus we find that the Bible teaches respect for the family and all its relations. Obedience to parents is required by one of the Commandments. And as we survey conditions today we realize the importance of the family to our American way of life. Let each member in his own place strive to make the family the means of blessing.

Members of the Chapel and Sunday School are expected to attend the service of the first two weeks.

A special service of worship is planned for 8 p. m. Sunday, Aug. 14, and will be a candlelight service with hymns of adult reception of new members and service of Holy Communion. Members of the Chapel and Sunday School are expected to attend the service as follows:

LOW DOWN FROM
HICKORY GROVE

Fellow citizens, voters, nice people. I again plead for assistance with getting some place with my saving of free America via my platform - one-planer. It has no trails no long-winded affair, designed to confuse and catch the unwary flat-footed off second base. It guarantees the right to work, the right to prosper, the right to protection against any enemy.

I will elaborate a mile on one enemy within our own boundaries. He is the gink who preaches the notion that the Govt. can do anything best and the people can sit in the shade and get the profit. Take Govt. electric lights as a sample. It is one of champion phonies.

To delve further into the lights, if Seattle or Los Angeles or Tennessee - all are messin' in kilowatts - would sell their outfits for cash to the best bidder and apply the dollars to reducing their debts, they would eliminate bond interest - they would put tax-exempt property back on the tax roll. The resulting rates would be no higher - and the taxes on the people would be reduced. The State commission would fix a reasonable kilowatt rate - and the byways and highways of the land would be washed clean of a horde of burlesque political rascals, who are cramping the style of America. We been babbin' in the woods - all up your shootin' tools, folks. Now - let's come, soon.

Yours with the low down

Dominion Over Circumstances

NO one need be the victim of circumstances. Circumstances are our servants. They provide us with opportunities - opportunities for expressing God, for manifesting, as His reflection, wisdom, faithfulness, love, understanding, dominion.

Christ Jesus had neither wealth, backing, nor influence, but he had complete self-dominion over whatever circumstances confronted him. He lived his life under the law of God, the law of spiritual peace, life, and love. His understanding of divine law and obedience to it annulled for him all illusory material laws.

Mary Baker Eddy, the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science, writes in her textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 14): "Entirely separate from the belief and dream of material living, is the life divine, revealing spiritual understanding and the consciousness of man's dominion over the whole earth. This understanding casts out error and heals the sick, and with it you can speak 'as one having authority.'"

It is not necessary to withdraw from humanity in order to gain spiritual understanding. In fact, the crucial test of our spiritual understanding lies in how we apply it in our day to day dealings with our fellow men. Many accounts in the Bible illustrate this.

Joseph, for example, appeared to have very little control over the events in his life. Hated by his brothers, sold into slavery, cast unjustly into prison, forgotten by those whom he had aided, he yet assumed dominion over his circumstances and turned them to spiritual advantage. He lived his life according to "the life divine" and not according to "the belief and dream of material living."

Material circumstances would have told Joseph that his state as a slave in Egypt was one of inferiority and helplessness, but his spiritual integrity told him that he was under God's rule, and that obedience to God prevails against the injustices of mortal decrees. Conscious of God's presence, he reflected the spiritual qualities of friendliness, faithfulness, and brotherliness. These brought him favor and dominion. When a slave, he was made overlord of his master's household; when a prisoner, he had committed to him the welfare of the other prisoners; and, as time went on, his spiritual vision so impressed Pharaoh that he made him second only to himself in all Egypt.

Resentment, self pity, a helpless magnifying of misfortune - these are all part of "the belief and dream of material living." Joseph had no time for them. His faithfulness to God kept him under the protection and governance of divine law, so that he was able truthfully to tell his brothers (Genesis 45:8), "It was not you that sent me hither, but God; and he hath made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ruler throughout all the land of Egypt."

Under the law of God, Jesus had been able to pass safely through crowds seeking his destruction and go on his way, but for humanity's sake he allowed himself to be crucified. On the threshold of this experience he prayed (John 17:1), "Father, the hour is come, glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee." He stressed not the terror but the glory. He was not the victim of crucifixion, he was the victor over death for all time.

We can go forth daily not to fight circumstances, but to meet angels. We can place ourselves, our families, our careers, under the law of God. Humbly and confidently we can assume the mastery over circumstances, search for and find their blessing, and progressively demonstrate the liberality of the children of God. - The Christian Science Monitor.

BETHEL GIVES BRYANT POND 5-3 TIE LAST THURSDAY

The Bethel A. C. bootled away their chances of defeating Bryant Pond for the first time this season at the Pond last Thursday evening.

Bethel scored in the first inning when Baker and Brown walked and Bill Robertson clouted a double to center, scoring both runners.

Bryant Pond scored a run in the second when Brown led Farnum's single over second base go by him in center for an error. Farnum went to second as Brown chased the ball nearly to the fence as the other two outfielders were not overly anxious to back the centerfielder up on the play. Farnum easily scored on Melvin's single.

The Pond assumed a 4-1 lead in the third on Dick Mills home run with Les Thurlow and Don Whitman aboard.

Bethel made the score 4-2 in the first of the fourth when Bennett scored on Pete Baker's double to left. Bethel went into the lead 5-4 when Glynn Witter hit a home run with Merle White aboard.

Bryant Pond knotted the count in the eighth when Fred Farnum lashed a liner to right that G. Witter got his glove on but couldn't capture while Farnum was hustling all the way to third before the ball was returned to the infield. Farnum scored on Bear's angle.

The game will be replayed at Bryant Pond next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMER

From Amelia Decker, Denver: I remember when I was become frightened and ran into the ditch and upset the buggy when an automobile passed us.

From Mrs. Ida Johnson, Duluth, Minn.: I remember when I was nine years old buying one cent ice cream cones - also five pieces of gum in a round tin box.

From C. L. Miller, Vale, Oregon: I remember when a President was elected - Grover Cleveland. The Democrats would get the blacksmith anvils and lead them up with gun powder and shoot them. On a still night you could hear them 25 miles away.

From Royena Warren, Harvard, Idaho: I remember when we were lighted the kerosene lamps only when company came. We used candles made of beef and mutton tallow and a little beeswax. We ran melted fat into the mulls with sticks laid across the top with candle wicks dangling from them.

From Mrs. Nellie Keene, Millard, Fla.: I remember when we baked sweet potatoes in a Dutch oven on a clay hearth and carried water in pails up about a 100-foot hill.

From Mrs. Truie C. Whittier, New Mexico: Mrs. I remember when my mother and all the ladies saved the yellow stamps from yeast cakes and sent them in for pictures. Also when a certain brand of soda came with pictures of birds, flowers and animals in each package.

BUCKFIELD SCORES EASY WIN OVER R. A. C., 12-5

Although veteran right-hander Lawrence Bailey pitched creditably the Bethel team could not seem to match his good pitching with even mediocre defense.

Bill Robertson paced the losers at the plate with a single and a double in four trips to the plate. The Bethel aggregation tours to Rumford Point and it is hoped that more players can find their way to Rumford Point than did the last time the team played there.

Bethel plays at Bryant Pond next Tuesday evening and Locke Mills next Thursday evening. The next home game will be against Bryant Pond on Sunday, Aug. 17.

THE CHAIRMAN

A PEEK AT THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

QUENTIN REYNOLDS will be on the video screens in the near future in a quarter-hour film series titled "Thrill of a Lifetime". . . . Quentin is one of the best story-telling news-men it has been our pleasure to listen to in a long time. . . . Hope he doesn't have to be burdened with a script, unless it's written by himself, on this new show. . . . June Valli, featured vocalist on ABC's "Stop the Music", has cut an RCA-Victor record titled "Strange Sensation" that has the music trade agog.

The bulk of the stories and articles penned by the late Damon Runyon are slated for telepic production, one of the best pieces of news that has come across this screen and battered desk in a long time. . . . Runyon's yarns, while New York fantasies, are universal in appeal and maybe the chuckles they will provide via television is what this tired old world needs these days. . . . An indication of the enormous appetite for talent television has, is shown by upcoming plans at NBC. . . . The network is sending a production unit to Europe to film top vaudeville acts for later showing here.

Zsa Zsa Gabor, who was recently deserted by hubby George Sanders, is being used to promote a TV show titled "I Want to Get Married". . . . Look for "Mr. and Mrs. North" to hit the TV airwaves this fall. . . . It has been estimated that the combined TV-Radio audience for the national political conventions will hit 93,000,000. . . . "Duffy's Tavern" may make its debut on TV this fall, too, which wouldn't leave many unexploited radio programs left.

PLATTER CHATTER

COLUMBIA:—Champ Butler does a very fine job with the beautiful "Auf Wiederseh'n Sweetheart". . . . Here is a boy who has a good voice and a lot of boyish appeal but so far the bobby soxers haven't caught up with him. . . . When they do you can be sure he will be riding the crest, because the chap has what it takes to put over a song. . . . Back of the disc has "Padam, Padam". . . . Frank Sinatra's latest in "Luna Rona" with "Tennessee Newsboy" on the flip.

Manner, not gold, is woman's best adornment. —Monander

"At present about one wage or salary earner in nine is employed by some governmental unit, national, state or local. After taxes, a survey states, employees as a group are getting an 11 percent larger share of national income but employees private business are 'in' for only about 18 percent more as compared to 1929. More government workers, at relatively higher pay scales, a point for most of the apparent increase."

Gander Corner Song
by Elias Grover

In Bethel's fair town of fame and renown
For learning, and morals and grace,
Some little affair sometimes happens there
Which does not much honour the place.

They say on the flat they wickedly chat,
They buy, and cheat, and deceive,
Were it not for a Wheeler and Old Captain Peter,
The place would be sunk, I believe.

There is a vile place, which to their disgrace,
Is called, we well know, Gander Corner,
A little affair of late happened there,
Not much to their credit of honour.

One man, it is true, had bid them adieu,
And moved off his goods and his stock,
Except one old gander which he left there to wander,
And him they soon brought to the block.

Oh! Gander, forlorn, Oh! had you but known
Of this sad, this fatal disaster,
How soon you'd have sped across the great reeder,
And escaped unharmed to your master.

But, alas! 'twas too late to escape the sad fate,
The ax was already drawn,
When, with one fatal blow, alas! and I trow,
And the poor gander was gone.

Ye lawyers define the horrible crime,
And tell where the laws do forbid it,
Goose slaughter or no, how far it may go,
And hang up the rascals that did it.

'A Wheeler is Amos Wheeler, Captain Peter is Peter Twitchell, Holms Greenwood was the man that moved and left the gander.'

(Copied from The Gosham Mountaineer of Feb. 8, 1881.)

BOYKER BELIEVES LIQUOR SCANDALS IMPORTANT ISSUE

State Senator Henry W. Boyker of Bethel, Independent candidate for the governorship in the State election next month, said last week that he would rather "see the liquor commission scandals settled before we take up the matter of Communist-minded candidates for public office."

Boyker's statement was in reply to State Senate President Burton M. Cross who told Young Republicans that he has knowledge of communist influences which "relate to one of my opponents." Failing to elaborate, Cross said "a little later in the campaign I will bring these facts to you."

Boyker said he doesn't think Cross "referred to me as favoring Communism because in the many talks I have made throughout the State in the campaign I have said that Communism is the greatest threat to freedom the world has ever known and is the organized enemy of our country."

Boyker, an Independent candidate for governor, replied to persons assailing his move in running for office outside the Republican party.

"If I had been a candidate in the primary election, I would not now be an Independent candidate for governor," he said. "But since it was not my intention nor the intention of my many supporters, regardless of party, that I should be out of the primary, I have filed as an Independent."

Boyker's name was removed from the primary ballot because of a technicality. His gubernatorial opponents Sept. 8 will be Cross, Republican nominee; James C. Oliver, Democratic choice; and Nell S. Bishop, running as an Independent-Republican.

Boyker said it has always been "my principle and policy to finish a job once begun. Therefore I would like to see the liquor commission scandal settled before we take up the matter of Communist-minded candidates for public office."

Boyker said he wants to see "a people's government carried on through the constitution of the State" and remains undisturbed that "Senator Cross and I have some different ideas on State government."

10 MAINE CHILD PEDESTRIANS KILLED

The highway fatality picture for 1952 reveals that there has been a tremendous jump in the number of child pedestrian victims," the Maine State Police Division of Traffic and Safety tells us.

From January 1st through July 23rd, this year, there have been ten child pedestrians killed, as compared with three for the same period in 1951.

"Running into the street and playing in the sand on the side of the road are particularly dangerous practices," warns the Division, as it issues an earnest plea to all parents, urging them to do everything possible to keep their children out of the streets.

Seals of achievement are awarded each year to Maine 4-H Clubs which meet the high standards set by the Extension Service.
